"Geography and the Humanities: Applications of Digital Cartography to Digital Humanities"

Presented by Robert Cheetham & Deb Boyer of Azavea

Haverford College - Magill Library - Philips Wing
January 26, 2012 - Tea at 4:15 pm - Talk at 4:30 pm

Azavea is a geospatial software development firm based in Philadelphia. The firm's work is focused on design and development of web and mobile software that apply contemporary geographic visualization and analysis technology to complex problems. Deb Boyer and Robert Cheetham will present recent digital humanities projects at Azavea, including PhillyHistory; Mapping DuBois; Visualization of the Emancipation Process; and recent research in Augmented Reality.

Sponsored by the Library & the Tri-College Digital Humanities (TDH) consortium