

I was born,
November 20th

My mother read to me since I was very small

- Therefore my curiosity for intelligence was piqued

I went to a Catholic school, that were really dedicated to teaching children
well

- In hindsight, I believe that because my teachers cared about my education, I had to too.

I went to a new school

- Through middle school and high school I struggled academically and socially

I Refound what I loved about
education/learning
things

- I began to try harder in school and really began to understand the importance of education.

I didn't really choose Bryn Mawr, its more like Bryn Mawr
chose me and I humbly accepted.
